Declaration of Privacy

As a result of your registration for the certification examination, Siemens AG will store and process your personal data if and to the extent that this is necessary to conduct and administer the Siemens Industrial Networking Certification Program. This means in particular that Siemens AG will store your exam papers and exam results and, if you pass the exam and receive a certificate, will provide Siemens customers with information about your certification and its validity period. Furthermore, Siemens AG will also pass on the above-mentioned data to Siemens AG Group companies so that they can also provide information to their customers about your certification and the validity period of your certificate. Finally, Siemens AG will use your stored personal data to contact you in connection with the certification program and to inform you in particular about the expiry of your certificate.
