

JANUS Engineering & Siemens

With common technological development programs, a strong commercial partnership, and ongoing exchanges, JANUS Engineering has been a close technological partner of Siemens Digital Industries Software for over 30 years and certified as Expert Partner.

JOINT VALUE PROPOSITION

Advanced technology + Proven expertise

With our expertise in software development for the NX CAD/CAM environment and optimization of the manufacturing process, we enable our customers to access the full power of NX to solve their problems and digitalize intelligently their enterprise.

Advanced technology + proximity

With consultants from the industrial world, we act in an instant anywhere in the world for a seamless service in order to benefit from Siemens software technologies continuously.

Full service for complete success

We offer a complete service, from auditing to training and ongoing process optimization. The technological and human combo we provide ensures perfect coherence between the digital and real worlds, bringing exceptional value to all our customers.

"The JANUS Engineering and Siemens partnership is a winning one. The idea is to bring powerful & adapted technological solutions closer to the men and women who make change happen. This is where we find Siemens' strike force and JANUS Engineering's know-how and proximity."
