Siemens Technology-To-Business Center LLC

1995 University Avenue, Berkeley, CA 94704

Siemens Technology to Business Centers (TTB) practice "outside-in" innovation for Siemens, seeking out the latest technology innovations from startup companies, individual inventors, universities and research labs. Founded in 1999, Siemens TTB Berkeley is situated in the heart of the most vibrant innovation ecosystem on earth — Silicon Valley and the San Francisco Bay Area — and adjacent to the University of California, Berkeley, one of the world's premier public universities. The Bay Area is also home to the largest venture capital and private investor community in North America. TTB Berkeley is an active participant and integral part of this unique ecosystem. The TTB team works closely with the people and organizations that fuel innovation in the region to discover nascent technologies, and to leverage the ecosystem's resources to accelerate development in collaboration with technology partners, investors and the Siemens business units.
