

Revere Clinics: Finance from SFS helps clinic chain create European Laser Training Academy & become specialist leader in the UK

Challenge

- In order to offer state-of-the-art procedures and diversify its educational portfolio for laser surgeons, Revere Clinics is working with Cutera and Siemens.
- The company offered a comprehensive range of dermatological lasers at its centre of excellence in Northwood as well as its Harley Street Clinic and needed to complete its portfolio with the Enlighten Pico second technology.
- Revere Clinics wanted to preserve capital reserves, so contacted SFS to discuss finance for the equipment.

Solution

- SFS was able to provide Revere Clinics with a tailored financing arrangement for the lasers, enabling all its branches to benefit from the latest technology.
- The equipment required for cosmetic surgery is constantly evolving and pico-second lasers represent a game changing method in the treatment of pigmentation and tattoo removal.
- The acquisition of such state-of-the-art equipment helps Revere offer the very best services and with the help of finance, enables the business to grow rapidly and build on its worldwide reputation.

Benefits

- Over the years, staff at Revere Clinics have developed great personal relationships with the team at SFS, finding them readily available and responsive.
- Equipment acquired using finance from SFS in the past has delivered excellent return-on-investment and the company is confident the same will be true of the Cutera lasers .
- Consumers have become increasingly aware that the Enlighten more than halves treatment sessions, reduces downtime, treats all colours and achieves far better clearance than previous technology.

“Nowadays, patients have a huge range of choice and they do their homework before selecting a clinic. For this reason, high clinical standards and state-of-the-art equipment is key to our success. We see our relationship with Cutera and Siemens as our key to that.”
