Description of Project Partner Organization

http://www.oecd.org

The Organisation for Economic Co-operation and Development (OECD) is an international organisation that works with governments, policy makers and citizens, establishing international norms and finding evidence-based solutions to a range of social, economic and environmental challenges.

Project Summary

This project implemented by the Basel Institute on Governance and the Organisation for Economic Co-operation and Development aims to embed Collective Action in compliance by developing a global norm, bolstering its application, and innovating Collective Action to address demand-side bribery and human rights synergies through three objectives.

First, the project seeks to position Collective Action as a norm by key standard-setting and enforcement institutions. Through strategic awareness-raising and advocacy, the project will encourage targeted institutions to create stronger incentives for more private sector and other actors to engage in Collective Action.

Second, it will equip compliance professionals and Collective Action practitioners with effective methodologies for launching and sustaining Collective Action initiatives through peer-learning and best-practice sharing.

Third, the project will generate innovation in anti-corruption Collective Action in two areas. To address the demand side of bribery the project will scale up the use of High Level Reporting Mechanisms (HLRM). In response to corporate demands for increased effectiveness of compliance systems, the project will identify ways to capitalise on synergies between bribery prevention and human rights protection through Collective Action.

To this end, the project will adopt a three pronged approach:

1) development of Anti-Corruption Collective Action Playbook for Global Compact Local Network(s) (GCLN) to mainstream the understanding and uptake of Collective Action,

2) global launch and roll-out of the Playbook to enable Local Networks in understanding and using the Collective Action methodology to identify and address corruption issues,

3) support select GCLNs in their Collective Action initiatives.

Underlying this approach will be an overarching goal of facilitating public-private cooperation on Collective Action through policy dialogue and engagement with governments and non-business stakeholders.

The United Nations Office on Drugs and Crime (UNODC) is a global leader in combating illicit drugs, transnational organized crime and corruption. It is committed to achieving health, security and justice for all by tackling such global threats, and by delivering legal and technical assistance to prevent terrorism.

Established in 1997, the Office fulfils a three-fold mission: research and analysis to produce authoritative reports on mandated areas; technical assistance to States in ratifying and implementing international treaties on drugs, crime and terrorism, which includes developing domestic legislation consistent with these treaties; and training judicial officials.

Description of Integrity Partner

The project will establish and implement an effective integrity education programme that fosters ethical decision-making in the private sector and empowers employees to serve as "ethics ambassadors" in companies. The project's most innovative aspects are: integrity education modules co-created by academics and business practitioners; student-focused teaching methods; and graduates who join the private sector as key ethics players.

The project will increase ethical commitment in the private sector by involving business managers in localizing education materials for universities and implementing on-the-job ethics courses that fit the work environments of industries vulnerable to corruption (e.g. law firm, banks). It utilizes bottom-up and top-down approaches for the highest impact. Significantly, the project will establish a link between university education and practical training, ensuring that ethics education is an ongoing process continuing from the formation to the career stage. Impact studies aimed at monitoring, evaluating and learning (MEL) will be carried out periodically to ensure goal attainment.

The project will be implemented in Pakistan, Kenya and Mexico, and will inform a global audience of educators and practitioners connected through UNODC’s worldwide networks.

The project ‘Setting the Ground for Business Integrity in Bulgaria’ ultimately aims at encouraging the adoption of voluntary anticorruption and compliance standards and fostering a culture of integrity in business in Bulgaria. The initiative will target the development and promotion of high-quality sectoral integrity standards in the key sectors of Energy, Industry and Healthcare, ensure pioneers to adopt and distribute them through their supply chains, and establish a better understanding of the need for business integrity in Bulgaria.

The proposed set of activities includes a participatory approach that includes all relevant stakeholders. TI will develop the sectoral integrity standards and ensure their endorsement by key business associations.

The project will map the targeted sectors and secure buy-in from at least three businesses that possess the potential to become pioneers of successful change.

TI will work with them to make sure the standards are adapted to their needs, and will engage actively in the development of a model for the further promotion of the same principles and procedures through the pioneers’ supply change.

Finally, the project will advocate the importance of the topic towards relevant institutions and provoke a more targeted dialogue with them.

The Ethics Institute (TEI)
Combating municipal and procurement corruption in South Africa

Description of Integrity Partner

The Ethics Institute is an independent public institute producing original thought leadership and offering a range of services and products related to organisational ethics.

Vision: Building an ethically responsible society.

Mission: To be a globally recognised thought leader providing comprehensive ethics solutions to organisations.

What we do: We pursue our vision and mission through thought leadership and an organisational ethics-related offering, including:
- training offerings
- advisory services
- assessments
- audit services
- products
- videos

Project Summary

Based on TEI’s experience with local government, it was established that ethical challenges at municipal level will not be solved without an intervention on the ethics of political leadership. TEI and relevant national government structures conceptualised an intervention for developing a national code of ethical governance in municipalities. The code should be the outcome of a structured national dialogue and consultation, should have broad societal legitimacy, and should give practical guidance on the ethical intricacies faced by political and administrative leaders in municipalities.

The second objective is the implementation of an Ethically Aware Supplier Induction (EASI) training and accreditation programme that will allow small-and-medium enterprises (SMEs) to be accredited as ‘Ethically Aware Suppliers’. The aim is to create a network of large organisations that are committed to utilising ethically aware suppliers, and a network of trainers who will continue to train suppliers in their organisations resulting in a culture of ethical business and co-accountability escalating across all procurement relationships.

The third objective aims to build capacity in the Gauteng Provincial Government to support municipalities ethics initiatives. The development of an ethics management monitoring and reporting tool will assist ethics officers structure interventions and improve reporting to oversight structures. This will ensure external oversight of ethics remains a drive of improved governance.

<td>Reducing opportunities for corruption and creating a culture of integrity by enhancing public-private dialogue and improving the legal framework against corruption. Corporate integrity is rarely at the top of the agenda in the private sector and most private companies in Myanmar have not yet adopted codes of conduct or guidelines on corporate integrity. The lack of anti-corruption standards is slowing down development in most of the important economic sectors. For example, the licensing system in the extractive industries is open to corruption and risk of conflict of interest. Bribery, particularly involving public officials, is reported as common in daily business and civilian interactions. Public-private dialogue and collaboration to design incentives for strengthening corporate integrity and cooperation have started recently but are only at early stages and are only concentrated in specific sectors. To address the defined gaps, this project will promote the adoption of anti-corruption legislation; the development and adoption of codes and guidelines in the private sector; as well as the development of a culture of integrity in businesses in Myanmar.</td>
