A total fire and life safety provider

A leader in technology and smart buildings, Siemens understands the critical role fire and life safety systems play in protecting people, property, and business continuity. You can trust us as your technology partner to:

- Help protect your facility with a complete portfolio of fire and life safety solutions
- Help ensure proper code compliance and ongoing performance through a tailored service program
- Assist in monitoring systems to deliver the correct response in an emergency

Designed for the life of your building

Our fire and life safety systems are designed to keep buildings safe over their entire lifecycle, from construction through changes and reconfigurations, modernizations, and expansions. Our building technology experts work closely with you to understand your business goals and design the right system and service program to maximize value and meet your needs today and into the future.

Safe and smart

We leverage the latest technology to add intelligence to building systems and enhance safety. Our smart building open platform provides centralized command and control, integrating multiple building systems including third-party systems, seamlessly for greater efficiency and response. In the event of a fire, Siemens solutions detects smoke, activates air dampers, communicates evacuation instructions, and provides first responders with critical information.

We seek to understand our customers' business challenges and goals and to apply our products and services in support of those goals. We focus on life safety, compliance, risk avoidance, cost reduction, and lifecycle management of assets.

SIEMENS

With fire and life safety solutions customized for your business needs and budget, you can turn to Siemens for our complete portfolio of innovative, intelligent technologies for the lifecycle of every facility.

Fire & Life Safety Solutions and Products

We offer a smart portfolio and then customize it to meet your needs and budget.

Our solutions include:

- Fire detection and alarm
- Emergency voice
- Area of rescue
- Early warning fire detection
- Clean agent suppression
- Smoke control
- Emergency Responder Radio Coverage System

You can improve responsiveness with centralized command and control through our Desigo™ CC fire safety management station. It provides a graphical approach to manage and control all of your firesystems from a flexible, easy-to-use interface that enables fast response in an emergency.

Mass Notification Solution

Reaching and accounting for people during a critical event can be difficult and stressful. Our mass notification solutions provide command and confidence in trying circumstances. Delivering customized messages through multiple modes of communication is critical in an emergency situation. Siemens mass notification means that emergency messages are received by everyone, no matter where they are or what they're doing.

Siemens can help you understand and take action for the NFPA 3000™ standard for Active Shooter / Hostile Response. We will work with you to evaluate your specific needs and how to prepare, respond, and recover from an emergency or hostile event.

Fire & Life Safety Services

Our comprehensive services can help maintain protection at the highest levels. Test, inspect, and repair all of your fire and life safety systems, in accordance with NFPA® standards as well as state and local codes.

Consulting Specifying Engineer and Contractor Support

Great protection begins with the right partner. Our EngineeringAdvantage™ Program provides tools, resources, and support to reduce risks and deliver technical excellence, cost-effective solutions, application options, and on-time performance. Our SpecWriter™ tool, user-friendly and with custom-text capabilities, is the fastest and easiest way to create professional life safety systems specifications to help deliver projects on time and on budget.

When you're protecting what matters, it matters how you protect it. Siemens fire and life safety solutions help protect everything that is important to you.
