Should the Customer fail to give such certification in time (max. 2 days after receipt of the work sheets), the work records maintained by the Siemens personnel shall serve as a basis for the price calculation.

Siemens may adjust the rates set out in the Exhibit when required to raise rates/salaries payable to its employees due to statutory provisions or trade union agreements or in accordance with the yearly publications for basic collective wages of the Austrian Electrical and Electronics Industry. The Customer shall be informed accordingly 4 weeks before the new rates become effective.

Customer shall provide Siemens all support reasonably required in the procurement of entry, residence and working permits.
- 9.2 Any impossibility or delay in obtaining the necessary entry residence or working permits which is not solely attributable to Siemens shall not constitute a breach of Siemens' contractual obligations and Siemens shall be entitled to an adjustment in deadlines for performance.

10 Replacement of Personnel

Siemens may at its own expense and at any time during the performance of the Services replace any of its personnel. Where the Customer cannot reasonably be expected to employ a specific member of the Siemens personnel for reasons related specifically to that person Siemens shall endeavor to replace that person.

11 Delay in Performance

- 11.1 The scheduled and contractually agreed completion of Services requires that the Customer properly complies with its obligations including the agreed payment terms. The agreed schedule shall be appropriately extended where the foregoing obligations are not met in time or otherwise agreed to in the Agreement.
- 11.2 If Siemens is hindered to meet an agreed date stipulated in this Agreement for reasons not solely attributable to Siemens, the deadlines shall be extended adequately and Customer shall compensate Siemens for additional work and efforts in connection with such hindrance.
- 11.3 The schedule shall also be deemed to have been met even though minor Services may yet be required as long as the outstanding Services do not adversely affect the use of the Services.
- 11.4 If the completion of Services is delayed for reasons solely attributable to Siemens and if the Customer can prove that it has suffered a loss as a result of such delay, Customer shall be entitled to claim liquidated damages. The amount of the liquidated damages shall be governed by the nature of the fee negotiated for the Service in question:
- (i) For Services for which a lump sum has been agreed: If a final deadline for completion of the Services has been agreed, Customer may demand liquidated damages of 0.5% of the agreed lump sum applicable to the delayed Service for each full week of delay. The liquidated damages are limited, however, to a maximum total of 5% of the value of the lump sum applicable to the delayed Service.
 - (ii) For Services on a time and material or on a measurement cost basis: If a final deadline for completion of the Services has been agreed, Customer may demand liquidated damages of 0.5% of the value of the final time and material or measurement cost fee applicable to the delayed Service for each full week of the delay. The liquidated damages are limited, however, to a maximum total of 5% of the value of the final time and material or measurement cost fee applicable to the delayed Service.
- 11.5 Liquidated Damages shall be the Customers sole and exclusive right and remedy for delay available to Customer, in lieu of any other or further rights and remedies.

12 Force Majeure

- 12.1 Neither Party shall be responsible for any delay or other failure in performing its contractual obligations hereunder if the performance of such obligations is prevented or hindered as a result of Force Majeure (as defined below). This also applies should a Party be in default with the performance of its contractual obligations at the point in time when the Force Majeure occurs.

- 12.2 "Force Majeure" means any circumstances beyond the reasonable control of a Party, including but not limited to act of God, fire, flood, earthquake, embargo, strike and lock-out, virus attacks and other attacks on IT systems by third parties (e.g. hacker attacks), acts or omissions of civil or military authorities (in particular, but not limited to currency restrictions, suspension or withdrawal of import or export permits), war, acts of sabotage or terrorism or Siemens' determination of a security threat for the region or country where the site is located, even if these circumstances occur with a supplier, vicarious agent (Erfüllungsgehilfe) or an Affiliate.
- 12.3 For the purposes of this Agreement, "Affiliate" shall mean a corporation, company or other entity, now or hereafter, directly or indirectly, owned or controlled by, or owning or controlling, or under common control with one of the Parties, but such corporation, company or other entity shall be deemed to be an Affiliate only so long as such ownership or control exists. For purposes of this definition "control" of a corporation, company or other entity shall mean to have, directly or indirectly, the power to direct or cause the direction of the management and policies of a corporation, company or other entity, whether (i) through the ownership of voting securities providing for the right to elect or appoint, directly or indirectly, the majority of the board of directors, or a similar managing authority, (ii) by contract or (iii) otherwise.
- 12.4 A Party seeking relief shall notify the other Party without undue delay after the occurrence of the Force Majeure event. Performance shall be extended by a period of time equal to the period of the delay and its consequences including any period necessary for the resumption of the Services. In addition, the Parties shall agree on an appropriate adjustment of all other contractual obligations, such as fees.
- 12.5 If one or more Force Majeure events continue to cause delay for more than three (3) months in the aggregate, either Party may terminate the Agreement and section 22.3 shall apply.
- 12.6 Customer shall reimburse Siemens for all additional costs and expenses arising from a Force Majeure event.
- 13 Transfer of Risk
- 13.1 Goods included in the Services are delivered EXW (INCOTERMS 2010), provided nothing to the contrary has been agreed in the Agreement. Risk for delivered goods shall pass to the Customer in accordance with the agreed INCOTERMS.
- 13.2 The risk of accidental damage to or loss of the Services in whole or part shall remain with the Customer.
- 14 Acceptance
- 14.1 Unless otherwise agreed in writing no formal acceptance of the Services rendered shall be required. Where no formal acceptance has been agreed, Services shall be deemed accepted at the time of their performance.
- 14.2 Where the Parties have agreed on a formal acceptance, Siemens shall notify the Customer in writing when the Services are ready for acceptance and acceptance shall take place within 7 days.
- 14.3 Should a formal acceptance not have taken place within 7 days from the date of notification of readiness, due to reason beyond Siemens' control, acceptance shall be deemed to have taken place upon expiry of said period of time.
- 14.4 In any event acceptance shall be deemed to have taken place upon the Customer's taking into operation of the item in relation to which the Services have been provided or use of the Services for commercial purposes.
- 14.5 The Customer shall bear all costs of acceptance.
- 15 Warranty
- 15.1 Where the Services are comprised exclusively of the delivery of goods or the delivery of goods and performance of work, Siemens shall be liable for defects as follows:
- Siemens shall, at its sole discretion and at its expense, either repair, replace or modify the defective goods delivered and/or perform the defective Services again, provided that the goods and/or Services were defective at the time of transfer of risk. Insofar as defective parts of the delivered goods have to be replaced, such defective parts shall pass into ownership of Siemens. Siemens shall be responsible for the necessary disposal in a legally compliant manner.
- 15.2 Siemens' obligation to repair, replace or modify defective goods or re-perform defective Services under section 15.1 shall continue for 6 months from acceptance or deemed acceptance (as defined in section 14) of the goods or Services (the warranty period). In the event that any Services are defective and are rectified under warranty, the rectified Services shall benefit from the remainder of the original warranty or a new warranty of 6 months (whichever shall be the longer), subject to the proviso that all warranties on any rectified Services shall end no later than 6 months from the end of the warranty period that applied to the Services delivered in the very first instance.
- 15.3 With respect to Services not covered under section 15.1 (e.g. where such Services do not include the delivery of any goods) Siemens shall be liable for defects as follows:
- Should Services not be performed in accordance with the terms of the Agreement for reasons for which Siemens is responsible, Siemens shall re-perform the defective Services if and to the extent Customer has notified Siemens without undue delay, but no later than within two (2) weeks of the defective performance of the Services. If Siemens fails to diligently start with the re-performance of the Service in accordance with the terms of the Agreement within two (2) weeks of notification of a defect, Customer is entitled to terminate that part of the Agreement affected by the defect by written notice with immediate effect.
- 15.4 Siemens' obligation to re-perform defective Services under section 15.3 shall continue for 3 months from acceptance or from deemed acceptance (as defined in section 14) of the Services (the warranty period).
- 15.5 Notifications of defects by Customer shall be given in written form without undue delay.
- 15.6 In the case of notification of a defect, Customer may withhold payments to an amount that is in a reasonable proportion to the defect. The Customer, however, may withhold payments only if the subject-matter of the notification of the defect involved is justified and incontestable. The Customer has no right to withhold payments to the extent that its claim in respect of a defect is outside of the relevant warranty period. Attendance or work undertaken by Siemens for the purpose of remediation in response to a notification of defects that are not covered by the warranty shall entitle

Siemens to claim reimbursement of its incurred cost and expenses from Customer.

15.7 Siemens shall be entitled to a reasonable period of time for rectification of a defect under warranty.

15.8 If the rectification of defective Services (including goods) still fails after three attempts, and Customer is, due to the ongoing defect, deprived of substantially the whole benefit of the Services, Customer may terminate the Agreement and shall pay the compensation according to section 22.3

15.9 There shall be no claim for defects for insignificant deviations from the agreed quality, of only minor impairments of usability, for normal wear and tear or damages occurring after the transfer of risk, including from faulty or negligent handling, excessive strain, improper operating materials, unsuitable equipment, defective civil work, unsuitable building ground, non-reproducible software errors or due to special external influences which are not identified within the Agreement. In addition, software errors are only deemed a defect if the defect occurs in the most current software version at the given time. If improper modifications or repair work are undertaken by Customer or a third party, there shall be no claim for defects or for the resulting consequences thereof.

15.10 The Customer shall pay the costs of dismantling, transportation (including transportation between the onshore base and offshore site), re-assembly and re-installation of equipment affected under this warranty, transportation from the onshore base of personnel, offshore accommodation and messing (including helicopter transportation).

15.11 If the Services comprise software, which also contains software of third parties, for which Siemens has no rights of use with regard to the source code, Siemens shall only be obliged to rectify defects insofar as Siemens is in possession of an error-free version or, with reasonable endeavors, is able to obtain an error-free version.

15.12 Siemens shall have no liability for claims for damages by Customer due to defects or a qualitative impairment of performance other than as expressly set out in this Agreement.

15.13 The rights and remedies expressly provided for in this section 15 shall be the sole and exclusive rights and remedies available to Customer, in lieu of any other or further rights and remedies.

16 Defects in Title, Proprietary Rights and Copyright

16.1 Siemens shall perform the Services free from defects in title and free from an infringement of third parties' industrial property rights and copyrights ("IPR") with respect to the country where the Services are provided. If a third party asserts a justified claim against the Customer based on an infringement of an IPR by the Services provided by Siemens under the terms of the Agreement and used in conformity with the Agreement, Siemens shall be liable to Customer within the relevant time period stated in section 15.2 and 15.4 as follows:

With respect to the infringing Services Siemens shall, at its sole discretion and cost, either

- (i) obtain a right to use,
- (ii) modify them so that they do not infringe the IPR,
- (iii) replace them or

(iv) take them back and reimburse the respective portion of the fees.

16.2 Siemens shall only be subject to the above obligations, if Customer

- (i) promptly notifies Siemens in writing about any claims asserted by the third party,
- (ii) does not acknowledge an infringement of an IPR,
- (iii) leaves any protective measures and settlement negotiations to Siemens' discretion,
- (iv) duly cooperates with Siemens in defense of the claim and,
- (v) upon Siemens' request, provides all necessary information and documentation.

If Customer stops using the Services, Customer shall inform the third party explicitly that no acknowledgement of the alleged infringement may be inferred from the fact that the use has been discontinued.

16.3 Customer's claims and rights shall be excluded if Customer is responsible for the infringement of the IPR.

16.4 Furthermore, Customer's claims and rights shall be excluded if the infringement of the IPR is caused

- (i) by specifications or instructions made by Customer,
- (ii) by a use not foreseeable by Siemens or outside the specification/contractually intended use,
- (iii) by the Services being modified by Customer,
- (iv) by the Services being used together with products not provided by Siemens or
- (v) by use or distribution of other than the most current software.

16.5 Any further and other claims and rights against Siemens arising from or in connection with a defect in title or an infringement of IPR are excluded.

17 Confidentiality

17.1 "Confidential Information" shall mean any information and data disclosed by one Party to the other Party in connection with the performance of this Agreement and which -when disclosed- is identified or otherwise designated by the disclosing Party as "Confidential" or with similar terms, or where it is clearly in the interest of the disclosing Party that the information or data is kept confidential.

17.2 All Confidential Information

- (iii) shall be kept confidential by the receiving Party with the same degree of care as is used with respect to the receiving Party's own equally important confidential information to avoid disclosure to any third party, but at least with reasonable care.

17.3 The obligations under section 17.2 shall not apply, however, to any Confidential Information which:

- (i) was in the receiving Party's possession without an obligation to confidentiality prior to receipt from the disclosing Party;
- (ii) is at the time of disclosure already in the public domain or subsequently becomes available to the public through no breach of this Agreement by the receiving Party or breach of the corresponding obligations of any Affiliate, the Party's subcontractors or the Affiliate's subcontractors;
- (iii) is lawfully obtained by the receiving Party from a third party without an obligation to confidentiality, provided such third party is not, to the receiving Party's knowledge, in breach of any obligation to confidentiality relating to such information;
- (iv) is developed by the receiving Party independently;
- (v) is approved for release in writing by the disclosing Party or
- (vi) the disclosing Party is required to disclose by any ruling of a governmental or regulatory authority or court or by mandatory law, provided that written notice of such ruling is given without undue delay to the disclosing Party so as to give the disclosing Party an opportunity to intervene and provided further that the receiving Party uses reasonable efforts to ensure that the Confidential Information is treated confidentially.

17.4 If one Party discloses or distributes Confidential Information in accordance with section 17.2 lit. (ii), such Party shall be liable for acts resulting in unauthorized distribution or disclosure of such Confidential Information as if such acts or omissions had been its own acts.

17.5 Within 90 days after termination or expiry of this Agreement the disclosing Party may request in writing from the receiving Party that the receiving Party at its discretion either returns or destroys all Confidential Information in its possession received from the disclosing Party. This shall not apply to copies of electronically exchanged Confidential Information made as a matter of routine information technology backup and to copies which must be stored by the receiving Party according to provisions of mandatory law.

17.6 The obligations mentioned in this section shall remain valid for a period of 3 years after termination of this Agreement.

18 Change Requests/Changes in Law

18.1 Each Party to the Agreement is entitled to submit written change requests concerning the scope of performance during the term of the Agreement.

18.2 Any change request shall only become effective once both Parties to the Agreement have signed a variation to the Agreement. The Parties to the Agreement shall respond to a change request of the other Party to the Agreement within ten (10) working days.
